We provide solutions

Our courses are designed to prepare your team for success. We have multiple approaches to achieve this.

Needs Analysis

Coursetakers will undergo a needs analysis at the beginning of their paid course, which is a 45-minute session to help the teacher understand how best to structure your course, and make sure you reach your goals by the end of the course.

Task-Based Learning

Coursetakers will use English in an interactive and engaging way. They must apply their English knowledge to real life situations by completing parallel tasks to what they achieve at work.

Grammar and Vocabulary

We don't believe in following a textbook at DICTION English. We are experts in our field, and more than capable of recognising a need to practice grammar or vocabulary. We use production-based activities and make decisions during such activities about whether or not additional grammar or vocabulary practice is necessary. Our activities are designed to enhance your strengths and improve your weaknesses.

Visible progress from start, to middle, to end

English learning stops for no man. Our teachers provide monthly progress meetings to clients individually or as a group, to ensure that coursetakers feel a sense of true progression. Our clients are satisfied with us but, more importantly, they are proud of themselves and able to take their English with them in their careers for life.

No AI - We do not buy into the downward spiral

In the same way that we expect our students to produce authentic and human English, our teachers are under no circumstances permitted to use AI-generated work for their students. This is the only way that we can guarantee full clarity and authenticity.
